

MAMA LUNA lines to translate into Romani (Gypsy) language:

- 1: "you're easy on the eyes." Or something like, "he's a good looking man."
- 2: "You work in the sun."
- 3: "You're impatient."
- 4: "You've come through great hardship. You keep secrets. A burden."
- 5: "You're going to die."
- 6: "Some sooner than others."
- 7: "You are why she burns."
- 8: "You run from something unspeakable. It's not finished with you."
- 9: "You came to settle a debt."
- 10: "You've come for our gold!"

There's a part where Mama Luna begins an incoherent chant to herself, barely above a whisper, but quick and intense. The chant quickens, gets louder and becomes almost a single, continuous groan. Will need to know how we should proceed with doing this. Not sure what she should or will be saying in the chant, but it is possibly a term that is repeated over and over? Not sure, open to figuring out what makes sense and sounds creepy.

Mama Luna has 3 lines in broken English:

- 1: "You won't save her."
- 2: "Drink. Straight down."
- 3: "Mother."
