

DEAN

No. That's the thing. He was stealing the money. So...I did some research. Turn out dispensaries are having trouble getting bank accounts and credit card companies won't handle their transactions. So --

ARIELLE

Cash.

DEAN

That's right. And the way I figure it, their security is light, if any. Plus, I have a feeling local police and the FBI aren't gonna care much about a weed shop getting ripped off.

ARIELLE

I like it. But I don't wanna just be the lookout either. Or the driver. I wanna be in there with you -- earnin' our keep.

Dean sits back -- looks her over.

DEAN

We're gonna have to get you a gun.

Start Sc. 1

52 INT. JIM'S FIREARMS FLORIDA - PENSACOLA, FL - DAY

52

We track with Arielle as she scans the cabinet filled with semi-automatic pistols, revolvers and more.

Dean browses around.

SALESMAN

So...for you sub-compact is probably your best bet. I assume you'd be looking for conceal and carry? Either a purse or on your person.

ARIELLE

That's right.

SALESMAN

I'm a Glock fan. It's reliable, it'll never fail on you.

He pulls out a Glock 19 Gen4 9mm handgun.

SALESMAN (cont'd)

Glock 19.

He racks the slide and non-chalantly hands it over to Arielle.

She takes it in her hands.

SALESMAN (cont'd)

9mm.

She holds it up -- aims.

SALESPERSON

It's the perfect size, perfect dimensions, perfect capacity, and perfect efficiency of design. Got one on the hip right now.

He references the gun in a holster on his hip. Arielle looks him over.

ARIELLE

But?

He smiles.

SALESMAN

A lot of people find it boring. It looks boring. That's a part of the design but it's not for everyone.

(calling out)

Billy, what do you think of Glocks?

Some guy named BILLY at another counter answers.

BILLY

Boring!

SALESMAN

You don't strike me as a Glock person. I get the sense you're looking for something with a bit more style -- maybe even intimidation factor.

Arielle smiles.

She looks down and points.

ARIELLE

That one.

52 CONTINUED: (2)

52

Dean steps up as the Salesman reaches under the counter and pulls out the --

SALESMAN

Colt Defender. Reliable, micro-compact 1911 that's maximized for discreet carry and nearly flawless performance.

DEAN

I like it.

End Sc. 1

He racks the slide and hands it over to Arielle. As she takes it from his hand it's like King Arthur pulling Excalibur from the stone.

Arielle takes aim, feels its weight.

DEAN (cont'd)

That the one you want?

Arielle nods.

DEAN (cont'd)

Great.

(to Salesman)

We'll be back.

53 EXT. JIM'S FIREARMS FLORIDA PENSACOLA, FL - DAY

53

Dean pushes through the door -- throws on his sunglasses.

Arielle follows.

ARIELLE

Are we not getting it?

DEAN

Not from there.

ARIELLE

Why?

DEAN

Well, first, I ain't paying $800 for a gun. That's one. The second is buying a handgun in the state of Florida requires a background check and you have to be 21. I won't pass a background check and you're not 21.

(MORE)

3/3

(CONTINUED)